

Bloomsday 2012

An Irish cultural event of music and drama to celebrate the work of James Joyce

with

The Here Comes Everybody Players

Ann Carpenter, Donal O'Sullivan, Jean Sheikh, Cahal Stephens and Josh Way

also featuring: Stephen Mark Brown, Tenor and Linda Papatopoli, Piano

8 PM, Friday & Saturday, June 15 & 16

100 Franklin Street, Boston (entrance at 60 Arch St. or 201 Devonshire St.)

Steps from Downtown Crossing T - On-street Parking in the area

Suggested Donation: $25 per person

All proceeds benefit the Irish International Immigrant Center programs and services to the immigrant community.

Reservations: (617) 542-7654 ext. 43 or reservations@iicenter.org

Each June 16, the work of great Irish author James Joyce is recognized around the world. "Bloomsday," named after Ulysses' lead character Leopold Bloom, celebrates that novel – set in Dublin on June 16 1904 – and Joyce's other literary works.